Douglas Casey, writing in the June 1, 2005, issue of his International Speculator, says Altius Minerals Corp. ($3.51) is one of several companies on this buy list that are even better buys now that the "Quiet Season" has arrived. Mr. Casey said buy four times between September, 2001, and April, 2005, at prices from 51 cents to $3.44. An investment of $1,000 each time would be worth $10,541 today. The letter writer, whose anti-big-government sensibility took glee in the rejection by French voters of the proposed European Constitution, says simply because "everyone" knows that the Quiet Season is coming, it is a self-fulfilling prophesy. The anticipation of a lack of volume has triggered some selling, but mainly it is a lack of buying that has pushed the sector down as a whole. Therein lies the opportunity, Mr. Casey says, adding investors should make this the Shopping Season instead. Last summer, Altius lost ground from about $3.50 to $3 by the end of the summer, then jumped to the $4 range and stayed at that level for the rest of the year. Volume also increased tenfold at summer's end. Other good Quiet Season bets are Eagle Plains Resources Ltd., Eurasian Minerals Inc. and Radius Gold Inc.
